Newmont Makes Rich Strike At Goldfield

ESTIMATED VALUES OF ORE $60 TO $100 PER TON

TONOPAH (Nevada): A strike of exceedingly rich gold ore, made at a depth of 385 feet, and some 2000 ft. south of the Florence shaft at Goldfield, by the Newmont Mining corporation, has been officially confirmed by the company, the news being released by Elmer Burt, Newmont's general manager at Goldfield.

New Find of Major Proportions

Officials of Newmont reported the vein struck several weeks ago in a crosscut in the White Horse claim at a depth of 358 feet, has now been drifted on for approximately 140 feet—and still shows highgrade ore.

The south segment, officials stated, had narrowed to a width of 12 inches Thursday (Oct. 9), although the ore was rich enough to carry the four feet of waste which makes up the five feet of drift. In other words the whole five feet as broken, goes into the orebin located near the Florence shaft, some 2000 feet distant, where ore is now accumulating at a rapid rate.

Face of the north drift shows five feet of highgrade ore with only one wall in sight. Full width of the ore at this point is not known, as the drift width keeps close to five feet.

Assay value of the ore as broken has not been announced, but it was stated officially that the lowest assay return taken since the vein was broken into several weeks ago was $20 in gold. A peculiar feature of the new discovery is that gold values tend to decrease as the vein narrows, and increase as it widens.

The ore is a tellurium, but at times shows considerable free gold. The entire production is classified as highgrade, indicating values of perhaps $60 to well over $100. These figures, however, are speculative and not official.

Fact that the vein was exposed at a point some 1500 to 2000 feet from the nearest spot where ore was mined in the boom days of the camp, and that the strike of the vein follows that of the old ore-bearing channel, offers the possibility that still other veins may be found beyond the present one. Profitable ore in at least one instance was mined at a depth of 1750 feet in the old workings.

Strike of Great Importance

Effect on Goldfield stocks has already been felt. Just what the future will bring in the way of a general mining revival in this part of Nevada is a matter of speculation, but it can hardly be anything else than of tremendous importance, and may spread to all parts of the state.

MRS. EARL TAYLOR DIES IN LEADVILLE

GRASS VALLEY: Mrs. J. Earl Taylor, widow of the late president of the Nevada County Narrow Gauge Railroad Company died Sunday morning at Leadville, Colo., where she had gone to visit her daughter, Mrs. Charles Newlove. Death came a few hours after her arrival.

Hooper and Weaver Mortuary expect the body to arrive tomorrow at Colfax. Funeral services will take place in St. Patrick's Catholic church Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock with Rev. Patrick O'Reilly officiating. Interment will be in the Catholic cemetery.

Besides the daughter in Leadville, another daughter, Mrs. Sybil Jones of Concord, Contra Costa county, survives. There are four grand children. Mrs. Taylor was born in San Francisco 67 years ago.

ELKS HAVE SUCH GOOD TIME THEY PLAN NEW PARTY

NEVADA CITY: Elks celebrated their annual Autumn Festival last Saturday night. Continuous entertainment, dancing and dinner attracted a large crowd of Elks and their guests.

Donald Robert Paine was chairman for the event. Harry F. Sofge took tickets. William Wasley, exalted ruler, decorated the tables.

Sound effects for the Shooting of Dan McGrew, a skit, were by Howard Wasley.

By popular demand, another party will take place on November 22.

NEW MUSEUMS

NEVADA CITY: At a recent meeting of the Historical Society, it was decided to assist in starting three new museums, one each in Grass Valley, Truckee, and North San Juan.

NO PLANS FOR SPECIAL ELECTION, SAYS GOVERNOR

SACRAMENTO: Gov. Warren has announced that if the people ask it, he will call a spceial election to fill the seat vacated by Assemblyman Allen G. Thurman who, on October 14, was elected to the state senate to represent Placer, Sierra and Nevada counties.

The governor, who made his statement at a press conference, said that there had, as yet, been no request for such an election. He pointed out that assemblymen are elected every two years.

The sixth district, largest in area in the state, is comprised of Nevada, Placer, El Dorado, Amador, Alpine, Calaveras, Tuolumne, Mariposa, Inyo, and Mono counties. The same area has four senators.

STUDENT RACER IN CAR CRASH

GRASS VALLEY: Lester Sandgren, Marysville high school student, was arrested Friday night after the Grass Valley-Marysville football game, charged with reckless driving resulting in personal injuries.

Sandgren, driving on the wrong side of East Main street, collided head-on with a car driven by Edward H. Hart of this city. Sandgren is accused of racing another driver and in passing ran head-on into Hart's car. Hart's passengers were his wife, Helen, 19, and his half brother, Ronnie McBride, 13. Sandgren was accompanied by Bobbie Denson, 17, of Yuba City. The girl's front teeth were knocked out and she suffered a severe brain concussion. Hart's left hand was lacerated, his wife cut and bruised, and Ronnie McBride suffered a deep, two-inch forehead gash. All were treated at the Community hospital.

A medical examination of Sandgren, the police state, showed he had been drinking but was not intoxicated.

PEREMPTORY WRIT COMMANDS SET-UP OF UTILITY DITRICT

AUBURN: Judge B. F. VanDyke of Sacramento, sitting as superior judge in the Donner Summit case, Wednesday issued a peremptory writ of mandate against the Placer and Nevada county boards of supervisors commanding them to set up the utility district within ten days from the date of service of the writ.

The exact words of the writ are as follows: "It is ordered, adjudged and decreed that a peremptory writ of mandate be issued commanding . . . the board of supervisors to proceed . . . to fix the boundaries and call an election within ten days from the date of service of said writ and that the petitioners recover their costs of action from the board.

District Attorney C. E. Tindall has filed intention to move for a new trial in the mandamus proceedings.

ALLEGED RUBBER CHECK WRITER HELD

GRASS VALLEY: Steve Bondam, charged with passing fictitious checks, appeared before Justice of the Peace Charles Morehouse for his preliminary examination. At the conclusion of the evidence submitted, he was bound over to the superior court.

V.F.W. MEETING

NEVADA CITY: Veterans of Foreign Wars, meeting last night at the Odd Fellows Hall, viewed Air Force movies of the latest high-speed airplanes.

Coffee and doughnuts were served. Commander William Mullis presided. The meeting had a very heavy attendance.

Members decided that the V. F. W. would actively participate in the Armistice Day parade in Grass Valley.

The next meeting will take place on November 17, with special refreshments at Seaman's Lodge.

BUSH REPORTS WETTEST OCT. SINCE 1889

NEVADA CITY: Frederick W. Bush, official weather observer, reports that the October rainfall of 9.9 inches is the heaviest of any October since 1899.

The rainfall schedule for October is as follows:

October 6	.50 inches
October 7	1.20 inches
October 9	.32 inches
October 10	1.65 inches
October 16	2.86 inches
October 20	.62 inches
October 21	.08 inches
October 28	.45 inches
October 29	1.92 inches
October 30	.30 inches

With one rain so far in November, the record stands at 1.14 inches for this month. This amount fell on November 2nd.

Bush reported that the last two mornings have been frosty, and that the temperature at 8 a. m. Thursday was 29¾ degrees, or slightly below the freezing point.

MINING NEWS

W. C. Innes of Nevada City and Robert H. Schwab, Sacramento attorney, are planning the development of the Monarch gold mine near Sierra City. Buildings are being repaired preparatory to drifting a tunnel some 1800 feet in the spring. The property is leased from O. L. Holmes.

Bert Austin, San Francisco engineer, is consultant for the Norine Mining Co., now leasing the Ruby mine from Frederick G. Phillips and associates. The Norine Company is composed of a group of Reno men, who have secured Phillips to direct operations. The Ruby is near Goodyear's Bar, Sierra county, and was sold last year by C. L. Best of Mission San Jose, Calif., to the Phillips group.

ENGLE DINNER

NEVADA CITY: Congressman Clair Engle will be a guest and speaker at a meeting of Nevada County Employers Council at dinner in the National Hotel here at 7 p. m. tonight, November 4th.

Invited to attend are wives and employes of the members. William Stinson of Grass Valley is in charge of ticket sales.

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATIONS NON-COMMERCIAL

SAN FRANCISCO: Centennial celebrations receiving financial aid from the state, shall not be commercialized, according to a report by the California Centennials Commission.

The legislature created the commission, and it was appointed by Governor Warren. It met here to discuss plans for the centennial celebration of Marshall's gold discovery on January 24, 1848, in Coloma.

The commission also decided that approved celebrations should be commemorative of a historical event of particular significance. Localities are to be encouraged to stimulate interest in California history by preserving historic landmarks, and establishing permanent city and county museums.

The commission has asked the post office department to issue a gold discovery stamp for the centennial.

Earl Covey of Grass Valley is a member of the commission's advisory board.

PERSONALS

NEVADA CITY: J. C. Howland, water dispatcher for the Southern California Edison Company at Big Creek, was a weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tourtelotte of Willow Valley.

George Ford, business man, is confined to the Miners Hospital.

Louis Saban is confined to the Miners Hospital. Visitors Sunday were his daughter, Mrs. Charles Parsons, and her husband. Saban formerly resided on Clay street in this city. His home is now in Colorado.

Mrs. Geary Feagan is visiting relatives in Los Angeles.

Miss Betty Jacobs, employed in a San Francisco radio broadcasting office, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Alex Jacobs of this city.

Judge James Snell is home from a month spent in Los Angeles where he presided in one of the courts.

Elva Jean Cox, a deputy in the county assessor's office, has returned from a fortnight's vacation in Arizona.

NAVY SHOWS MODEL SHIPS IN PENNEY STORE

GRASS VALLEY: A showing of model ships, entitled the United States Navy in Models, is being displayed in the window of J. C. Penney Co. on Mill street. The display was made in leisure hours by Nathan P. Rogers, retired naval warrant officer and associate of the United States (Naval) Institute.

The 15 models on display are part of an exhibit which has been shown in every state fn the country. Rogers is well-acquainted with the historical background of his ships, each of which is a true-to-scale model of an actual naval vessel.

Working at first as an unpaid enthusiast, and later as a full-time expert, Rogers has reproduced accurately a total of 52 ships. Earliest in the model line is the U. S. S. Alfred, a four-masted sailing vessel which was commissioned in 1775. Latest in the line is a modern submarine, the U. S. S. Steelhead, commissioned in 1943.

Outstanding in historical interest are models of the Merrimac and the Monitor, Union and Confederate armored vessels that battled to a draw in the Civil war. Largest model is one five feet long of the U.S.S. Saratoga, veteran aircraft carrier.

PT-boat's, yard mine sweeps, and other vessels complete the display.

Rogers is a veteran naval warrant officer. He served in the Spanish-American war.

Purpose of the exhibit is to spearhead a naval recruiting drive. Next stop will be Chico.

DONALD PRICE WINS BLACK BEAUTY SADDLE

GRASS VALLEY: Donald Price of Rough and Ready was the lucky winner of the "Black Beauty" saddle given away by the Gold Trail Riders at their Halloween Jamboree Saturday evening. The saddle has been on display in the windows of several business houses during the last several weeks.

In addition to the music of Mel Davis and his Blue Preludes was a half-hour show of talent by the talented youngsters of the Starlet Dance Studio presented by Genevieve Short.

The program included the following numbers:

Darktown Strutters Ball—Nella Whiting, Janet Peterson, Charlene Jones and Judy Tremewan; Wyoming—Carol Toy and Patty Carter; Tiptoe Through the Tulips—Utana Jensen, Rhonna Gavin, Winifred Green, Ida Mae Peard, Helen Mingus, Patricia Mingus, Patty Carter and Carol Toy. Featured in specialty songs and dances were Carol Fischer, Jan Sherwood and Dolores Porter.

ERNEST BIERWAGEN HEADS FARM BUREAU

GRASS VALLEY: Members of the Nevada County Farm Bureau held their annual election in the Grass Valley High School Saturday night. Ernest Bierwagen of Chicago Park was chosen president. Other officers elected were Milton Thompson, vice president; and C. J. Rolph, state delegate. Mrs. Elizabeth Frey is permanent secretary.

No Decorations For Landlords by Tenants Says Rent Authority

SACRAMENTO: Some landlords in the Placer-Nevada defense rental area are requiring their tenants to decorate their accommodations (either inside or outside) as a condition of rental, Area Rent Director W. M. Bayless said today, and he pointed out that arrangements of that nature are a violation of the federal rent regulations. Requiring current or prospective tenants to perform such work at their own time or expense, in addition to payment of the maximum amount of rent allowed by regulations, represents an overceiling charge by the landlord, he said, and tenants have recourse to law by suing the landlord for three times the amount of any overcharge represented by the overceiling work and cash payments.

"Rent," the rent official said, represents the consideration, including any bonus, benefit, or gratuity, demanded or received for or in connection with the use or occupancy of housing accommodations or the transfer of a lease of such accommodations, and under that definition, it is quite clear that the benefit that the landlord derives from work of any sort done as a requirement of renting constitutes an overcharge of the legal maximum rent, he added.

COSTUME PARTY GREAT SUCCESS

NEVADA CITY: The grammar school auditorium was packed and overflowing Friday night, because so many people came to see the assortment of goblins, witches, skeletons, horses and clowns that paraded for two hours across the stage. The auditorium was so crowded that some parents were unable to see their own children win one of the many prizes awarded for originality of costume at the school's annual Halloween jamboree sponsored by the Elementary Parent-Teacher Association.

The variety of costume was remarkable, and ranged all the way from lviing, facsimile vegetables such as carrots and pumpkins, to real burlap horses composed of pranksome pairs of youngsters. Plenty of white-robed, scary ghosts were on hand, as were numerous black-garmented witches, h'ants without number, and lots of little girls tricked out in national folk costume of all kinds.

The children entered the auditorium from the rear side door, and there mounted a wooden runway that ran the whole east side of the room. Representation in the lower grades was practically complete, but in the higher grades, fewer were on hand.

That the old Halloween spirit was not completely sublimated by the gala party was realized by many families who, after the evening's entertainment, found their windows thoroughly soaped.

Principal Lloyd Geist announced the event, while choir teacher William Tobiassen handled the sound arrangements for a ghostly musical accompaniment.

Winners of the costume parade included: Kindergarten, Danny Narramore, Jeff Boles, Jim Phelan, Peter Briggs, John Burton, Mickey Hurley; Miss Goyne's first, Dee Brown, Barbara Wolf, Bobby Steele; Miss Foley's first, Francis Ives, Donald Rollin, Jerry Clayton; Mrs. Smallet's second and fourth, Janet Anthony, Sharon Heiberger, Eugene Foote; Mrs. Atkin's second, Eileen Williams, Bill Mullis, David Brisbell; Mrs. Ryan's second, Charles Giani, Warren Scribner, David McKay; Warnecke's third, Dale and Larry Hornberger, Judith Williams, Chris Barnes; Miss Ford's third, Norma Page, Amy Odell, Larry Anderson; Mrs. DeMatei's fourth, Carol Richards, Fernette Richards, Beverley Stevens; Miss Hogan's fifth, Bert Campbell, Fred Relaford, Mary Coughlan; Mrs. Carlson's fifth and sixth, Bob Tonelli, Joyce French, Gail Roberts; Mrs. Clark's sixth, Jimmy Calvert, May Rollins, Don Steger and Gary Weldon; Thibault's seventh, Margaret Nutt, Ted Josne, Bernice Stockton; Mrs. Kilroy's seventh, Corrine Buster, Ann Coughlin, Victor Ives, Rosie Kelly; Mrs. Flindt's and Mr. Bonner's eighth, Darrell Moody, Irma Kendrick, Kenneth Hart.

The judging team was composed of Mrs. Harley Leete, Jr., Mrs. Bert Foreman and Franc Luschen.

The Parent-Teacher chairmen of the affair were Mrs. Miles Coughlin, Mrs. Ted Sigourney and Mrs. Fred Shaw, White Elephant chairman.

CVIC CLUB HONORS PAST PRESIDENTS

NEVADA CITY: The Nevada City Civic Club celebrated its twentieth anniversary Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Gildersleeve on Clay street.

A feature of the celebration will be a reception for past presidents. Among those honored were Mesdames H. E. Kjorlie, James Penrose, Jessie Robinson, R. J. Bennetts, Genevieve Elliott, C. E. Parsons, George Gildersleeve, Harley M. Leete and Miss Minnie Brand. Several of these held office for two years.

CHAMBERS ARE VERY BUSY

GRASS VALLEY: Business men of this city, Truckee and Nevada City will meet at the Bret Harte Hotel here at 7 p. m. Thursday night to further formulate plans for a Nevada County Chamber of Commerce. George Hansen, Arthur Innis and Al Irby of Nevada City's chamber, have handled arrangements for that community.

The board of directors of the Nevada City chamber meets tomorrow night. Among topics discussed will be when to schedule the forum meeting which, were it not that it falls on Armistice Day, would be held November 11.

The Grass Valley chamber will hold its regular monthly forum meeting Wednesday noon at the Bret Harte Inn. William Durbrow will report on the federal-state-county hospital program. He attended an October 23 meeting in San Francisco on that subject.

ELLIS STATES TREE CUTTING RULES ON XMAS

NEVADA CITY: Supervisor Guerdon Ellis of the Tahoe National Forest yesterday announced that free Christmas tree cutting by individuals in Nevada county towns and from the Sacramento Valley will not be permitted in the national forest this year.

He states that while it appears there are trees available along the regular routes of travel, as a matter of fact they are mostly young trees either growing as replacements, or are a part of the scenery along the roads.

Trees that supply the commercial market are usually obtained from the more inaccessible parts of the forest, he states. "Many operators have to sled their trees out to accessible roads. It is regretted that this action is necessary, for we fully appreciate the desire of many individuals to cut their own Christmas tree."

FRESHMEN FAVOR RUGGED INITIATION

GRASS VALLEY: The Freshman class of the Grass Valley high school, meeting with their advisor, Mrs. Vera Ingram, have voted in favor of a rugged initiation.

The class voted: (1) a shoe hunt scramble, (2) hair clipping, (3) lip stick orgies, (4) clothes inside out, (5) ride up Osborne Hill minus shoe and walk back, (6) peanut rolling with the nose, (7) onion rolling and peeling, (8) socks in hair, hair braided in many pigtails, and (9) blindfolded and barefooted to walk over macaroni.

Vigorous yells were led by Margaret Davis and Shirley Page, both of whom were yell leaders last year in the James S. Hennessy school.

PERSONALS

Henry Paine, suffering from a heart condition at the Nevada County Hospital, where he is being treated by Dr. Foster, is still in a serious condition.

John M. Reilly, auditor for the State Board of Equalization, is working this week at Truckee.

Miss Ruth Bock, teacher at the James Hennessy school, leaves Thursday for a tour of Shanghai and Hong Kong, prior to her acceptance of educational job in Baguio, Phillippine Islands.

CHIEF SOLARO REPORTS MILD HALLOWEEN

NEVADA CITY: Chief of Police Max Solaro yesterday reported that but one fire marred Halloween. The Meaglia residence on Long street caught fire from a Halloween lantern hung in the window. Wall paper was scorched, curtains were burned and large chair was consumed by flames. A few minutes before that a prankster turned in a false alarm for the corner of Union Lane and Broad street.

Solaro said that, despite this incident, he thought the youngsters had behaved themselves extremely well.

PERSONALS

GRASS VALLEY: W. J. Pascoe of Dalton street visited guests and friends in Oakland for several days this week.

Mrs. Sarah J. Nancorrow of Dayton, Ohio, who has been visiting her girlhood friend, Mrs. John Thomas of South Church street, has gone to Los Angeles for a brief stay.

JUST WONDERIN'

I Wonder about dunderheads,
Whatever they may be.
I Wonder if the term applies to you
Or maybe even me.
If I should meet a dunderhead,
I rather think I'd know,
But if I am a dunderhead,
Someone please tell me so.

We, my father and I, were enjoying one of our heart to heart confabs when he told me about dunderheads. They were, he said, people who went about with their heads in the clouds, quite oblivious to affairs other than their own. In time their brains became vaporized, they were smug—satisfied with the little world of their own and caring less and less for the great world outside, its problems and perplexities.

Sometimes, my father said, children were dunderheads;- but this was not often. Children were born with active brains, but as they grew older they acquired dunderheadism from association with their elders. It was well to be on guard and if one discovered symptoms of dunderheadism in himself, steps should immediately be taken.

Nonsense? Yes, but suggestive nonsense, founded upon more than a figment of the imagination, for even in this super-intelligent age in which we live, one finds dunderheads. There are the dunderheads who say, "Oh, I don't take any interest in international affairs, there's nothing I can do about foreign entanglements, so why worry?" Another may tell you that he will not bother his head about "goings on in Washington." And quite often we meet those who forget to vote on election day and who assert almost proudly, that they know nothing about the issues at stake and less about the candidates. Dunderheads.

I have now named a few dunderheads and I know you have met them all. Too bad to be a dunderhead in these stirring times, too bad to go on dundering day after day as time goes whizzing by and leaves one stranded on a lonely shore, shut in with his own small interests behind a curtain of smog through which he cannot see.

Let's not be dunderheads. Let's wake up and see. The greatest dramas in the history of the world is unfolding before our eyes, and every one has an interest in the denouement. Individual responsibility lies heavily upon us all; we can't afford to be dunderheads.

I Wonder why the ancients so often advised their constituents to go to the insects and emulate their tricks and manners. Why for instance was the sluggard told to "go to the ant?" All he had to do was to wait in the right place and the ants would come to him, in numbers. Of course the little busy bee improves each shining hour, but all the bees with whom I ever came in direct contact were uncongenial, in fact I might say, antisocial. Also the bee does an unnecessary amount of buzzing. Why follow the examples set by aunts and bees? Why not follow in the footsteps of some of our human great ones? Who wants to stand about trying to act like insects?

Uncle Silas says: "Isn't the loquacious Russian delegate to the U. N. confusing diplomatic immunity with undiplomatic impunity?

Nevada County Long Ago -

20 YEARS AGO

The ladies of the Grass Valley Delphian club were guests of the Sacramento Club and enjoyed a presentation of Maurice Maeterlink's "Blue Bird," which was given at the Elks Club in that city. Attending from Grass Valley were Mrs. Louis Hooper, Mrs. H. Woods, Mrs. D. Bing, Mrs. A. D. Foote, Miss Helene May and Miss Evelyn Provis.

Will Peckwith and his sister-in-law of San Juan exchanged their ranch for property in Oakland.

The first meeting of the fall season of St. Agnes Guild in Nevada City was held at the home of Mrs. C. J. Brand and was largely attended by members and friends. Rev. and Mrs. Charles Pearson were given a very cordial welcome. Mr.s W. L. Mobley was president of the organization.

A bill of sale was recorded by Lyman Gilmore, Jr., to Marie Clark and included two Studebaker automobiles, Hisso airplane motor, two Curtis airplane motors and all interest in the De Haviland airplane.

50 YEARS AGO

Samuel Andrews, new poundmaster of Nevada City, was instructed by the city trustees to enforce the ordinance prohibiting cows and horses to wander at large and graze on the city streets.

J. T. Howard of Nevada City, after inspecting the steamer Fruitvale, which had been running on the Sacramento river, decided it was unsuitable for ocean travel and planned to build a new craft to carry him to the gold rush on the Yukon in Alaska.

C. L. Canfield, editor of the Diary of a Forty-Niner, and F. E. Fisk were in Nevada City from San Francisco on mining business.

Miss Amy Crawford Heacock was married in great state to Lieutenant Axtell von den Knebeck of the Eleventh Regiment of Uhlans in Berlin, Germany. Miss Crawford was the niece of Wm. H. Crawford of Nevada City and her grandfahter, R. B. Heacock, was a resident in 1851 and '52.

McClure's Magazine for November contained chapters from Mark Twain's forthcoming book on his recent journey around the world.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Ott took their departure for Douglas Island, Alaska. Mr. Ott and the former Beatrice Quick were married at the bride's father's place in Grass Valley, October 5th. The couple was attended by Miss Anna Furth and the bride's brother, Albert. The Misses Addie Furth and Blanch Hand were ring. The Rev. J. L. Garver officiated in tying the knot.

75 YEARS AGO

The Bank of Nevada County on Broad street in Nevada City resumed business after a thorough remodeling. The business room had been furnished with a massive walnut counter, the floors had been richly carpeted and the windows were huge plate glass. Back of the banking room was a large, richly furnished and carpeted office. In the rear of the building a house had been built with a furnace for melting and all the conveniences for retorting gold and melting it into bars.

The California Central Narrow Gauge Railroad Co. was incorporated with a capital stock of $7,000,000. One of the objects was the building of a railroad from Nevada City and Grass Valley to Marysville and on to San Francisco via Chico and Benicia. Directors of the company were John W. Pierson, R. L. Tracy, Cornelius Cole, H. F. Williams and M. D. Townsend.

The eastbound passenger train of the Central Pacific Railroad jumped the track as it was going down grade from Summit Station to Truckee, overturning the locomotive, mail, express and baggage cars. Five persons were killed including John Hawke of Nevada City, mail agent; David G. Marshal, well known in Nevada City and a resident of Truckee, and Captain Taylor, guard on the Wells Fargo and Co. car.

DEATH

HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The Nevada County Historica Society column, beginning with this account of the Library Committee will again be featured weekly in the Nugget. The reading public is urged to send in items having to do with events, episodes and colorful characters of Nevada County history.

That committee work is the backbone of the Nevada County Historical Society is proven in this article about the work of the Library Committee, headed by Mrs. Olive Kallenberger and Miss Bernice Glasson.

Without committees, the whole structure of the Historical Society would collapse. Monthly programs are designed to entertain the members at large, but the committee chairmen and their group form the foundation of the Society in collecting, studying and preserving the real history of the county.

Doris Foley, president of the Historical Society, urges members who have not already joined a committee to do so. The Library group needs sub-chairmen, typists and typewriters in getting material in readiness for the Centennial program next year. Members wishing to join this committee may phone Mrs. Kallenberger, Nevada City 520-J, or Miss Glasson, Grass Valley 251.

The work of the Library Committee has been divided into the following sub-committees:

I. Bibliography Committee: Sub-chairmen, Mrs. Goodell Sherman and Mrs. Audrey Weselsky. As an aid to research workers and to the reading public in general, an index file of historical books, titles, and names of authors is being compiled for the Nevada City and Grass Valley libraries. A notation will be made on each card, giving a brief review of the book, and where it may be found. This bibliography will be checked with the public and private libraries of the county.

II. Library Shelf Committee, Grass Valley Library, Miss Bernice Glasson; Nevada City Library and Museum Library, Mrs. Olive Kallenberger; Truckee Library, chairman needed; N. San Juan Library, chairman needed.

Gifts of historical books to the Nevada County Historical Society will be kept on a special shelf in the libraries of the towns mentioned above where they may be made available to the reading public.

III. Scrapbook Committee: Scrapbooks are being made for the Museum Library by pasting in them pictures and clippings from newspapers. Materials for these scrapbooks may be obtained from Mrs. Olive Kallenberger, 568 East Broad St., Nevada City. Scrapbooks on the following topics are to be made.

1) Nevada County Historical Society meetings: Chairman needed.
2) Mining Scrapbook: This includes types of mining used in Nevada county, and interesting mining stories. Chairman needed.
3) Transportation: Early migrations, roads, teams, stagecoach, railroads, etc. Doris Foley.
4) Lodges and Social Organizations: This chairman is to make an index file, and would have to work with the historian of each organization in obtaining information. Chairman needed.
5) Churches of the County: Index file is to be made of colorful characters of local prominence. Chairman needed.
7) Nevada County Chinese Scrapbook: Chairman needed.
8) Nevada County French Scrapbook: Mary Warnecke.
9) Sawmills and Lumbering in Nevada County Scrapbook. Chairman needed.
10) Highlights of County History. A scrapbook on human interest stories. Chairman needed.
11) Nevada County Indian Research Scrapbook: Miss Genevieve Kent.
12) County court and government of Nevada county: This scrapbook would contain stories of famous trials, etc. Chairman needed.
13) Nevada County History: This scrapbook contains clippings about each locality. Chairman needed.
14) Book Reports: The Neva County Historical Society Co umn is planning to print o report on an historical boo each month. Miss Esther Ha tung. (Miss Hartung wou appreciate a large commi tee.)
15) Research Scrapbook: Cove ing period from 1846-1852.
a) World events during th period, Helen Chapman.
b) English expressions, Ma garet Stevens.
c) Guns, Wilma Salonish.
d) Buttons and glasswar Grace Englebright.
e) Costumes and hair ar rangements, Cora Foley.
f) Dishes, Lenore Coughlin.
g) Dances, Grace Raymond.
h) Songs, Marian Libbey.
i) Other topics may be adde by anyone wishing to par ticipate. A general chair man to compile this ma terial into a scrapbook i needed. This book will b of great value to researc workers, authors, artist and dramatists interested in that period.

IV. Cemetery Committee: A brief descriptive item on each cemetery, when founded, monuments, markers or inscriptions of particular interest to be noted for the Historical column. A diagram and a list of graves is to be made for the following cemeteries:

Nevada City: Chairman needed for each: Catholic cemetery, City cemetery, Pine Grove, Pioneer, Chinese and Hebrew.

Grass Valley cemeteries: Chairman needed for each: Catholic cemetery, Jewish cemetery, Odd Fellows, Redmen's, Chinese, Masonic cemetery.

County cemeteries: N. San Juan, Lew Woods; N. Bloomfield, Wendall Kallenberger; Washington, Clyde Cole; Cherokee, Jay Coughlin; French Corral, William Moultin; Truckee, chairman needed; Graniteville, William McClain; Camp Far West, Oscar Renner.

Anyone knowing of county cemeteries not listed, and wishing to participate in this work is urgently requested to contact Mrs. Olive Kallenberger.

V. Vital Statistics Committee: Chairman needed: Letters are beginning to come in from people requiring information on grave locations of gold rush relatives, births, deaths, etc. This committee is to copy the obituary notices from the old papers, list all Nevada County Directories, and handle letters of inquiry.

VI. Family Albums: Individuals may preserve the memory of family members by preparing a photograph album for the Museum library. A book containing a picture of each family member, the years they lived, and the most outstanding event in their lives, would be of great historical value to the museum library, and for the individual who prepared it, a feeling of service well rendered in honoring the memory of loved ones who have gone on. Any size album or photograph book will do, and is to be purchased by the individual.

Mrs. Kallenberger has many clippings for scrapbooks, will welcome more and is willing to help anyone in the work they choose. She is desperately in need of help. One does not need to belong to the Historical Society to aid in compiling this very necessary material before the Centennial program begins.

Funeral Today For Heart Attack Victim

GRASS VALLEY: Funeral services will be held this afternoon in Hooper and Weaver Mortuary for James A. Medlyn, who died Saturday morning in Dr. Fritz Tobias's office of a heart attack while being treated for an ear infection. Bishop Ralph Greenwell of the Latter Day Saints read the service. Interment was in the Greenwood cemetery.

The deceased was born in Michigan 57 years ago and followed mining. He had lived in Grass Valley many years. His residence was 317 North School street.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Nora Medlyn; and two sons, Sam Medlyn of Utah, and William Medlyn of Grass Valley.

Mrs. Mary Crowfoot Addresses B.P.W.C.

GRASS VALLEY: The Grass Valley Business and Professional Women's Club met in the Starlet School of the Theater Wednesday night with Mrs. Genevieve Short in charge of the program.

Guest speaker was Mrs. Mary Crowfoot, who discussed table decorations and favors. She is the artist who drew the cover for Sally of Grass Valley and for the program of the Frontier Days' celebration last Fourth of July.

The president, Mrs. Effie Myers, will preside during the dinner.

Funeral Tomorrow For Mrs. Anna Loeffler

SIERRA CITY: Funeral services will take place in the Catholic church here tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock under direction of the Hooper and Weaver Mortuary of Grass Valley for Mrs. Anna Marie Loeffler, 80, who died Sunday morning. Rev. Virgil Gabrielli of Nevada City will conduct the service. Interment will be in the Sierra City cemetery.

The deceased was the widow of the late Emil Loeffler. She was born in Downieville, Sierra county, and had lived in the same house in Sierra City for 63 years. Surviving are her daughters, Mrs. Vernie Veale of Auburn, Placer county; Mrs. Elma Ponta of Downieville; Mrs. Anna Hansen of Sierra City, and six grandchildren.

FROZEN LUNCHBOXES

If your children like to take lunches to the beach or your husband prefers a homemade lunch at work, you can prepare a week's supply all at once. The lunches go in your home freezer, of course. The fact that the food is frozen when it's taken out means that it will be fresher tasting when it thaws than the same foods would be if they were made up and packed that morning.

THE Diary of a 49'er

FROM THE BOOK EDITED BY C. L. CANFIELD

JANUARY 4, 1852.—I had a disappointment for my New Year. I have been expecting every day to hear that Marie had got back to San Francisco, but instead I got a letter saying that unless I insisted on her coming at once she would wait a couple of months more before starting for America. She was looking after her investments and visiting her people—she had a mother and two sisters living in Paris—and as she did not know when we would go back together, was staying longer than she planned. The letter gave me a fit of the blues and I almost made up my mind to take a plunge, leave the country and go to Paris myself. Pard hurt me by jokingly suggesting that some Frenchman had cut me out, and maybe he is right; but if that is true what would be the use of me making the journey for nothing. I wrote her a long letter, telling her that I was in earnest, and if she intended to keep her promise she must come back without delay.

It doesn't look as if we were going to get into the creek very soon with our new mining scheme, as it keeps on raining just enough to raise the water to a flood level. In the meantime we have got tired of loafing and have started to drift on our old claim. It is not paying very big. The streak of pay dirt is only about two feet wide and a foot deep. We have to shore up the ground with timber and it takes us a lot of our time cutting it. We drifted about eight feet last week and took out eleven ounces.

Our jackass is getting to be a nuisance and is almost as much of a pet as Jack, although we don't let him sleep in the cabin, a liberty which, judging by his actions, he seems to think should be allowed him as well as the dog. He gives us a concert in the early morning that wakes up the woods; follows at our heels to the claim; when we visit our neighbors, trots along as if social duties were in his line, and "he-haws" and brays whenever we are out of sight. Pard says that with the exception that he is too fat, he has all the symptoms of being in love.

JANUARY 11, 1852.—The country is stirred up over a mysterious tragedy that nobody seems able to solve. Neither Ristine nor Carther, the two miners at whose cabin we ate our Christmas supper, have been seen by anybody since that night. No attention would have been paid to this, as the boys do not keep track of each other to any extent, had it not been that Sunday, a week ago, Henry Shively went down to their place to pay them a visit. He found the door of the cabin open, and no sign of the men around. This would not have seemed strange had not the inside of the shanty looked as if no one had been there for a week. The fire was dead in the fireplace and a pot of beans that hung on the hook had been there for days, as the contents were sour and mouldy. The flour sack had been gnawed open in places and flour was scattered over the floor—no doubt the work of coyotes and mountain rats. Nothing else seemed to have been disturbed. Shively went down to their claim, which was close by, and found their Tom and tools in place, the picks and shovels and the Tom iron were rusty, proving that they had not worked in the mine for a week or more. Thinking it queer he concluded to come up and tell Pard the circumstances, which he did, meeting Anderson on the trail coming back from town. Pard turned back and went with him to their cabin, taking Platt along. They found everything as Shively had told them, noted that the best clothes were hanging over their beds, a shotgun and rifle on pegs over the fireplace, and a six-shooter under one of the pillows. On a little shelf by the window, where the gold scales stood, there was a yeast powder can with about five ounces of gold in it. It was certain from the looks of things that the men had no intention of leaving, and it was also sure that they had not been near their cabin or their claim for a week or ten days. Pard came home and told me about it and next morning early we rode down to Selby Flat to see if anything had turned up to explain the mystery. Nobody there had seen anything of the missing men since Christmas. After talking it over it was agreed that a delegation should go over to Nevada and find out if they had been there, or had left by any of the stage lines, while about twenty of us formed a searching party to look the country over in the vicinity of the cabin. In the middle of the forenoon we heard some of the boys shouting up on the hill and, on going to them, found out that they had discovered Ristine's body under a manzanita bush. It was in bad shape and the coyotes had torn off both arms, but the face was not touched. A watch was left, the coroner notified, and that afternoon an inquest was held. Outside of the fact that Ristine was dead, nothing was developed and the jury returned a verdict of "died from unknown causes." Then a thorough search of the cabin was made and inside of the mattresses a big buckskin purse was found, which contained about eight hundred dollars in dust. In a box under the other bunk there were three yeast powder cans that were full to the top with gold. We buried Ristine close to where we found his body and it was a sickening job. From letters in the box it was learned that both men were married. One came from Reading and the other from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. There is no suspicion of robbery, for there was nothing stolen, and it doesn't look like murder, for if one had killed the other the murderer would certainly have hidden the traces of his crime and not have left the gold dust behind if he intended to quit the country. The general opinion is that Carter is dead and that his remains will be found.
